IIIB. TEACHING INNOVATIONS

III.B.1. MAJOR PROGRAMS ESTABLISHED

Global Communities Living-Learning Program 2011-present—Re-established and revised a two-year residentially-based undergraduate program open to all majors, supported by the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences. Created a freshmen-oriented interdisciplinary social science program focused on globalization, global issues, and intercultural understanding, including a special version of the UNIV100 course for entering freshmen. Developed new courses to fulfill a new experiential course requirement, including an internship course and service-learning course. Created two main required courses, obtained General Education and I-series approvals, and revised/ innovated in them to include active learning such as simulations and group projects. Developed capstone project requirement for final semester of the program, including new e-Portfolios. Supported staff who developed a new Education Abroad short-term course. Established admissions and recruiting practices and new marketing efforts, working with Admissions Office. Developed leadership opportunities via a student association, and worked closely with Resident Life and Resident Facilities. Hired administrative and instructional staff, and provided professional development opportunities support. Developed a wide range of co-curricular opportunities such as field trips, educational events, and academic support.

III.B.2. EDUCATION ABROAD ESTABLISHED

Supported the development of a winter term course on “Service in the Dominican Republic” as part of the Global Communities Living Learning Program. Course is led by Global Communities staff, but is open to all students. Established a small grant program to support students.

III.B.5. INSTRUCTIONAL WORKSHOPS AND SEMINARS ESTABLISHED

Developed a workshop/ course for Government and Politics Department on Teaching Political Science for graduate students 2013.

III.B.6. COURSE OR CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

Developed four courses for the Global Communities LLP—the required course sequence BSGC101 and 102; the capstone course BSGC302 (later this requirement was dropped and a non-credit capstone established); and BSGC399 a readings course for independent study and for undergraduate teaching assistant readings.

ELEVATE Fellow at UMD—yearlong fellowship and training to transform courses, focused on BSGC101-102 course sequence.

Chesapeake Sustainability Fellow—2-day workshop opportunity to learn to integrate sustainability into courses, sponsored by the Office of Sustainability.

Academy of Innovation and Entrepreneurship Faculty Fellow—integrated design thinking into group project in BSGC102 with assistance of staff of AIE.

Developed a new Honors seminar that was a small-seminar version of GVPT289.

Created/ revised a 1-credit course on teaching for GVPT graduate students.

Developed new graduate seminar on global governance/ transnational relations and non-state actors.

Worked with University-level Global Studies Committee, under the Dean of Undergraduate Studies 2010, to develop university call for proposals for new globally-oriented academic programs; worked with College of Behavioral and Social Sciences to develop proposals for new global studies programs, courses, and minors.

Participant, Freeman Foundation grant, “Incorporating East Asia into Teaching,” 2004
